

WITH OVER 30 YEARS IN BUSINESS and a combined architectural experience of over 250 years, we know a thing or two about what makes for exciting buildings.

In that time we've turned wrecks into palaces, fields into homes, awkward spaces into interesting ones and difficult properties into gems.

At Johnston Cave Associates we've built a comprehensive experience in working with old or listed buildings – restoring them to their former glory – but also taking advantage of the latest technology and techniques to make them fit for the 21st Century.

When it comes to old buildings, we know what works, what to watch out for and what to aim for; from design to planning, specifying to detailing, contractor supervision to finished building.

THE MAJORITY OF OUR COMMISSIONS are from individual private clients looking to bring an overlooked gem back to life, extend and enhance their existing home or add some additional facilities - be that in Town or Country anywhere in the UK.

Increasingly we are asked to start from scratch - to build a house that dovetails with our client's needs, ambitions and lifestyle. But whoever they are, we provide true discretion.

As a Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) Chartered Practice and with our architects registered with the Architects Registration Board, we also have a long track record in Corporate, Academic, Collegiate, Religious, Governmental and other building for a wide variety of clients.

WHATEVER THE PROJECT, at Johnston Cave Associates we are able to provide a full range of Architect's professional services.

Our services include design work, planning schemes and feasibility studies, working drawings, construction information and specifications as you would expect, but our capability extends into contractor tender negotiations, cost control, certification for payment, contract management and project administration.

We have particular expertise and empathy with historic buildings as they need to be handled with sensitivity and care. Overseeing bodies such as English Heritage and local planners must be satisfied - not least by any plans to bring their infrastructure into the 21st Century. These demands draw on our expertise in conservation, repair and restoration as well as wide-ranging experience in the successful integration of new designs and modern services into existing historic fabric.

As a measure of our success in balancing these demands Johnston Cave Associates have in recent years won numerous design and conservation awards from Local Authorities in the Home Counties.

A SUCCESSFUL BUILDING PROJECT requires a lot of thought, love, care, planning and above all, teamwork. Just as a job can be ruined by a careless craftsman, a belligerent planner or an unhearing architect, delight can spring from a close team that understands, appreciates and offers solutions, not problems.

At Johnston Cave Associates, we've built a reputation for a team spirit that works with everyone involved to build the best we possibly can within the budget.

As a client you will find that we work hard to understand your vision and realise it in ways better than you thought possible. We not only make sure the building works for you and for future generations we also care about the appearance of all parts of the building, its context and how it sits within the landscape.

AT JOHNSTON CAVE ASSOCIATES we have the resources to act as and are frequently team-leaders in large multi-million pound construction projects, many of which involve very complex structures and services. These invariably require efficient administration and wide-ranging co-ordination – something that we pride ourselves in providing.

We also work with other disciplines including landscape architects, garden designers, lighting designers, interior designers and other consultant architects.

As well as working as the regular construction project consultants, our multi-disciplinary practice works with many other kinds of specialists, including experts in Audio Visual systems, air handling, book storage systems, conservators, lighting and display systems, security installations including the provision of 'safe haven' areas, underground cable detection systems as well as the latest home technology, IP and remote systems technology.

Services offered:

- Architectural Design, Working Drawings, Planning Schemes, Feasibility Studies, Model Making and Presentational Architectural Renderings
- Listed Building, Planning Application & Building Regulations submission, negotiation and administration
- Advisory on Contractor Tender, Procurement, Negotiations and Documents. Project Cost Control, Contract Management, Administration and Certification for Contractor payment

Executive Architects; Johnston Cave Associates; Concept Architects; ADAM Architecture

WITH AN ARCHITECTURAL PRACTICE comprising over 20 professionals, we have the resources as well as the expertise to undertake and complete multi-million pound projects anywhere in the uk.

We have designed and built shooting lodges in the Highlands of Scotland, vacation homes in Spain and Stately Homes in the Home Counties.

Our size and proficiency is recognised by our industry colleagues and we are often called in to help realise projects by taking on the role of Executive Architects. We work closely with the client's design team and concept architects to execute their vision in practical terms. We provide the essential project management and consultancy assets as well as the design and production resource and detailed working drawings that are so critical to the success of any project – both in design and financial terms.

The new building to the left is a fine example of a project undertaken with a concept architect – in this case ADAM Architecture.

Whatever the project, we pride ourselves on producing the best, most exciting and satisfying solution to the challenge.
